

Nursery Decor Essentials

Bringing a baby into your home is a beautiful, exciting and terrifying experience. Because of this, it is only natural to want to prepare for your bundle of joy as much as possible, and part of this process will inevitably include setting up and decorating a nursery. If you aren't a huge lover of interior design however, decorating a nursery might feel like a daunting task. Luckily, we are here to help. Keep reading to discover a list of our top five nursery decor essentials to help get you started.

1. Name Plaques

A really simple and easy way to add personality and flair to your baby's nursery, is to hang a name plaque in a prevalent spot within the room. A name plaque isn't necessarily limited to displaying a name though. Choose your favorite inspirational quote to be placed on the plaque if you prefer, thus ensuring your baby will wake up to inspiration every day as they grow.

2. Decals

Decals are a genius way to decorate any space, but they are especially useful for decorating a nursery. Why? Apart from high quality designs that can liven up any space, they are temporary. This means you can keep them up for as long as you want, but when it is time to redecorate again — say as your little one grows and begins to show interests of their own — you can easily take them down and replace them with something else. Not to mention, they happen to be a great decorating accessory for anyone who finds themselves in a position where moves are fairly common.

3. Wooden Letters

Wooden letters have been around as decor pieces for awhile, and this is for a reason — they are classic, timeless and significant staples in decor, especially for a new baby and/or child's bedroom. Get your baby's initials, or even full name, and make it a signature piece of decor in your child's nursery. It will really help to personalize the space, and can even serve as a unique and special keepsake that your child can enjoy as they grow.

4. Growth Chart

This is a really good idea as far as decor goes because it will not only add personality to your baby's Nursery, it will actually grow with them, letting both them and you see their progress as they grow and become the amazing individuals they were meant to be. Plus, getting a designated growth chart, as opposed to simply marking your child's progress on the wall, means you will never have to give up the special memories that come along with it if you move — you can take it with you anywhere.

5. Wall Hooks

These are really great and functional pieces of decor. They come in a ton of different colors and styles so they'll match whatever look you're going for in your nursery, and are great for a little extra storage. Basically, wall hooks are an exceptional way to add a pop of color in a nursery that may have limited space, or for anyone simply looking for an out-of-the-box way to decorate their baby's space.

There are a lot of ways to decorate your baby's nursery, however, there are simple and easy steps you can take to make your baby's nursery extra special, and we hope you've gained some great ideas on how to do this by reading this article. And if you did, be sure to check out our website (<https://www.homeworksetckids.com/>) for more awesome ideas and examples for how to decorate your baby's nursery.